

Shelter-In-Place

JBER has a train that runs directly through the Installation. It routinely carries materials that could be hazardous to your health if a large amount spilled during an accident. Shelter-in-Place would be your best means to limit exposure. In order for it to work, it must happen immediately after the announcement is made. Shelter-In-Place is short term, 2-4 hours.

Before something happens: Make an emergency supply kit with plastic, duct tape, flashlights, towels (and water if it is not available) in the room you plan to use for Shelter-In-Place.

- ❖ Shelter-In Place will be announced by all means available: Giant voice, police and fire PA systems, Commanders Channel 899, Facebook
- ❖ Bring all family members and pets inside
- ❖ The safest place is a room with the least amount of doors and windows. We recommend the bathroom because water is available.
- ❖ Once in the room, do not leave that room until notified by authorities. Put wet towels (or clothing) under the door. Seal those doors, windows and vents with plastic and duct tape.
- ❖ Once the hazard has passed, you will be notified via the giant voice, PA announcements or by calling 552-INFO
